The party is on: Craven ready to heat up summer

Seasonal staple. Alan Jackson, Eric Church and Brad Paisley are among the stars who'll light up the country music festival

 JEFF MACKEY

The Craven Country Jamboree is bringing some of the biggest names in country music to Saskatchewan starting today.

"We have Eric Church closing it out on Friday," said Kim Blevins, director of marketing for the festival.

"We also have got the classic Alan Jackson — he always puts on a fabulous show — and Brad Paisley, who hasn't been at the show for a few years now so we are really looking forward to him.

"We bring the biggest and the best stars to this festival.... We also have some great Canadian talent this year in Terri Clark, Emerson Drive, Dean Brody, Deric Ruttan and Chad Brownlee."

The Craven music festival has become a staple of summer in Saskatchewan.

"In (the festival's) current incarnation, it has been eight years but there has been music on this site going on 30 years," said Blevins.

"I think the people of Saskatchewan have always supported this. They love music and they really love country music."

Rain, rain, go away

Sunshine in the festival forecast

Craven will continue as planned this weekend despite receiving two inches of rain in less than an hour around noon on Wednesday.

The heavy rain forced organizers to shut the gates to the campground until 6 a.m. Thursday morning.

Organizers do not think the rain will affect the festival. "It is supposed to be sun all the way through, so we are looking forward to putting on a really good show," said Kim Blevins, director of marketing for the event.

This amount of rain pales in comparison to last year's flooding of the main campgrounds at Craven.

As You Like It and Hamlet will be the two main-stage performances at this year's Shakespeare on the Sas-

Von Eschen explained both are perfect for the festival's 28th year: Hamlet is a play that's "violent" and "tragic," while As You Like It is a "light-hearted, romantic" comedy.

He also noted giving the public access to live performances is important as

Tragic work mishap

Electrocution death in Stockholm

On Tuesday, at approximately 5:40 p.m., RCMP in Esterhazy were called to a rural location, approximately 3.5 kilometres south of the community of Stockholm after a call of an electrocution.

A 17-year-old male was in the bucket of a boom lift when it hit a set of electrical wires on its descent. His 26-year-old co-worker, Adrian Regehr from Saltcoats, tried to bring him down by using the controls on the lower part of the vehicle, and was electrocuted. Regehr was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at Esterhazy Hospital.

According to the Langenburg RCMP Detachment, the 17-year-old male was trapped in the bucket for a half hour to an hour as SaskPower cut power to the lines. METRO IN REGINA

Hazing death. Florida university president resigns amid scandal

The president of Florida A&M University resigned Wednesday, the same day the school was sued by parents of a drum major who died after being beaten by fellow band members in a hazing ritual. It was unclear if the two events were related.

Robert Champion's death put a spotlight on the controversial new-member rituals among some of the country's top college marching bands.

Champion died after fellow band members beat him aboard a bus parked outside a hotel following a football game in November against the school's archrival.

The school's trustees in June gave university president James Ammons a vote of no confidence after questioning his management of the band prior to Champion's death.

Eleven band members face felony hazing charges and have pleaded not guilty. Their trial is scheduled to begin the same month as Ammons' resignation, in October.

Americans agree: 9-11 is TV event of past 50 years

Research. Despite consensus on No. 1, men and women differ on cultural impact of other memorable telecasts

The Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attack is by far the most memorable moment shared by television viewers during the past 50 years, a study released on Wednesday concluded.

The only thing that came close was President John F. Kennedy's assassination and its aftermath in 1963, but that was only for the people aged 55 and over who experienced those events as they happened instead of replayed as an historical artifact.

Sony Electronics and the Nielsen television research company collaborated on the survey. They ranked TV moments for their impact not just by asking people if they remembered watching them, but if they recalled where they watched it, who they were with and whether they talked to other people about what they had seen. By that measure, the Sept. 11 tragedy was nearly twice as impactful as the second-ranked moment, which was the coverage of Hurricane Katrina in 2005.

Men and women agreed

U.S. bank director disappears with $17M

After penning a rambling confession to financial regulators and writing notes to his family, a south Georgia bank director boarded a ferry in Florida and disappeared.

Now local and federal investigators are trying to determine whether Aubrey Lee Price killed himself, as his lengthy confession would have them believe, or whether he slipped away with $17 million US of investors' money. His family has told authorities they believe he's dead, but federal investigators aren't so sure and have offered $20,000 for information leading to his arrest.

"I created false statements, covered up my losses and deceived and hurt the very people

I was trying to help," says the confession letter investigators believe was written by Price.

Wendy Cross moved about $300,000 to Price's firm after a trusted financial adviser told her it would be a good investment. She met Price in person once. She described a very religious, soft-spoken man with a gentle demeanour and an air of kindness. "He should have won an Oscar for his performance that day," she said. "He has left a path of financial carnage."

Price left his home in south Georgia on June 16, telling his family he was headed to Guatemala for business, said Sgt. Aaron Pritchett of the Lowndes County Sheriff's Office.

Toews springs a jail surprise

Federal Public Safety Minister Vic Toews says predictions of an explosion in the prison population are not coming true.

Toews says the inmate population stood at just under 15,000 as of June 30 — almost 3,000 below es-

Toews says the numbers refute opposition suggestions the government's tough-on-crime laws will put more people behind bars.

The lower-than-expected numbers, he added, will allow the government to spend almost $1.5 billion less over the next seven years by not building prisons.

700 geese gassed in safety flap

Airliners in danger.

Officials finally get permission to storm sanctuary near JFK airport in New York

U.S. wildlife officials finally got their hands on 700 Canada geese.

They've gassed the geese that were holed up in a bird refuge next to John F. Kennedy airport in New York.

The birds were considered prime culprits in deadly aviation strikes.

But they were untouchable living at the Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge, on protected land belonging to the U.S. National Park Service.

That all changed Monday, said USDA spokesperson Carol Bannerman.

Armed with U.S. Fish and Wildlife permits issued June 29, officials snared the 700 geese, shipped them to upstate New York for processing and will hand out the meat to food charities.

A true hero

One of the most famous Canadageese midair strikes produced true pilot heroism.

- Impact. Canada geese sucked into jet engines crippled U.S. Airways Flight 1549 out of LaGuardia on Jan. 15, 2009.

- Splash. Capt. Chesley Sullenberger managed to glide the plane into the Hudson River and save all 155 people on board.

"Forty-six per cent of the strikes between civil aircraft and Canada geese occur in the summer," Bannerman said. "Eighty per cent of the strikes are with resident (as opposed to migratory) Canada geese."

"About half of these cause damage, $90-million worth over the last 20 years."

Mystery. Man arrested, then one of U.K.'s richest women is found dead

She was one of Britain's richest women, but her fortune couldn't help her beat her addiction to drugs.

And now American-born Eva Rausing has been found dead in her west London home. A man was arrested in connection with the case.

The 49-year-old man was held on suspicion of drug possession. Later, a search of an address in London's tony Belgravia neighbourhood turned up Rausing's body.

Rausing, 48, was the wife of Hans Kristian Rausing, heir to the TetraPak fortune his father built by manufacturing laminated cardboard drink containers.

Both Rausing and her husband have had long-running and often public battles against addiction.

Scotland Yard said tests were being carried out on Rausing's body after an autopsy was inconclusive.

It added: "The death continues to be treated at this time as unexplained."

Rausing supported a number of charities that helped to fight addictions.

One of them — Action on Addiction — was among the first to express sadness over her death and praise her "wonderfully generous" support over the years.

Mississippi's only abortion clinic will remain open

A federal judge on Wednesday continued to block a law that threatened to shut down Mississippi's only abortion clinic and make it nearly impossible for a woman in one of the poorest states in the U.S. to have the procedure.

U.S. District Judge Daniel P. Jordan III temporarily blocked the state law July 1 and extended that order Wednesday. He did not say how long it would last.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that states can't create undue burdens or substantial obstacles for women seeking abortion. The law would require anyone performing clinic abortions to be an OB-GYN with privileges to admit patients to a local hospital. The doctors at the clinic do not

By the numbers

Jackson Women's Health Organization says in court papers that the clinic did about 3,000 abortions in 18 months.

have those privileges, and the clinic says the privileges aren't medically necessary.

Supporters of the law say it's designed to protect patients. Republican Gov. Phil Bryant says he hopes it will help make Mississippi "abortion-free."

The clinic, Jackson Women's Health Organization, says it has been unable to obtain admitting privileges for its two out-of-state OB-GYNs because local hospitals have not responded to their requests. The privileges can be difficult to get because hospitals might not grant them to out-of-state physicians, or hospitals with religious affiliations might not give them to doctors who perform abortions.

"If they're denied or if the hospitals are dragging their feet, that's going to be more clear evidence that there's a substantial obstacle" to access to an abortion, clinic attorney Robert McDuff said.

The clinic uses out-of-state physicians because in-state physicians generally don't want to face the social pressure of having protesters at their offices, homes or churches, clinic employees say.

NAACP. U.S. presidential candidate takes shots at Obama while attempting to reach out to key demographic Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney made a major pitch to black voters Wednesday with a heavy emphasis on the economy, but was booed when he promised to get rid of the Obama administration's health-care overhaul.

"I will kill every expensive and unnecessary program I can find, and that includes Obamacare," Romney said, then waited and smiled through the crowd's disapproval.

He faced more boos when he criticized President Barack Obama, who won 95 per cent of the black vote in 2008, and expects high support again in the November election.

Republicans and Democrats said Romney was making a statement just by speaking to the oldest U.S. civil-rights group. His speech tried to show independent and swing voters that his campaign is inclusive.

Q2. Consumer spending up, but June figures suggest slowdown: Study

Consumer spending increased in the second quarter compared with a year ago but that figures for June point to a slowdown, according to a report by credit- and debit-card processor Moneris Solutions.

Moneris said Wednesday that, overall, consumer spending increased 4.67 per cent year-over-year in the quarter, but that the smallest amount of growth, 3.72 per cent, occurred in June.

"While the Canadian economy continued to experience healthy growth in the second quarter of 2012, some signs point to a potential reduction in spending," said Jim Baumgartner, president and CEO, Moneris Solutions.

During the second quarter, the entertainment category saw the highest increase in overall spending in the quarter, up 9.43 per cent, while hotels and restaurants came in a close second, with growths of 6.75 and 6.41 per cent, respectively.

The specialty retail category also experienced strong growth, with stationery (6.62 per cent), florists (6.33 per cent) and pet shops (6.14 per cent) leading the increase in dollars spent.

Polymer banknotes reportedly don't stand up to this summer's sweltering conditions

GRAHAM LANKTREE

Despite having more security features than you can shake a stick at, Canada's new polymer-based banknotes may have one weakness — the sweltering summer heat.

Brittney Halldorson, a teller at the Interior Savings Credit Union in Kelowna, says the new $50 and $100 bills are supposed to withstand boiling water, but she has seen cases where several of the bills melted.

"We have seen it a few times now where there have been either three to four, or five to 10 (bills) all melted together," she said.

Shrivelled bills were all one man found after he stored his money in a tin near a heater. CONTRIBUTED/CAMBRIDGE TIMES

In January, a report from Cambridge, Ont., noted that a man who stored his bills in a tin box near a heater returned the next day to find them shrivelled and melted together.

"We've put these notes through a lot of testing so that they stand up to our very hot summers and cold winters.

The notes perform as intended under the conditions," said Julie Girard, a currency spokesperson for the Bank of Canada.

Girard said that if anyone has a bill that has been damaged in any way, they can have the money replaced by filling out a form on the bank's website.

The bank's new $20 note is set for release this November, Girard said, and the remaining $5 and $10 denominations will be out before the end of 2013.

RIM's board takes heat over changes

Research In Motion has taken many hits in recent months, but the composition of the BlackBerry maker's board of directors is a growing concern for some shareholders who are pushing for major changes sooner rather than later.

Vague assurances by chairwoman Barbara Stymiest of changes to come at the company's annual meeting this week left some, including activist shareholder Vic Alboini of Jaguar Financial, unsatisfied and calling for a makeover of the board now.

Alboini, who declared his hard stance at the shareholder gathering, showed no signs of letting up Wednesday, saying chief executive Thorsten Heins was not suited for the job.

"I think he should be gone from the company. He was there for the last five years and he was part of the problem," Alboini said in an interview Wednesday.

Alboini has called for RIM to bring on more diverse board members, including one from Silicon Valley and two from

New York, adding that the company could also benefit from additional non-Canadian members.

"You might also need somebody in Southeast Asia," he said, a market that RIM has proclaimed of particular interest as it looks to push sales of its older BlackBerry smartphones in the short term. THE CANADIAN PRESS

MAN VS. TOILET: THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca/hesays

Today, I am a man.

I mean, I've been male for as long as I can remember. But I've never been a guy's guy. I like hockey because of the elegant flow. I like The Tragically Hip because of the delicate lyrics. And I like MMA because I enjoy watching jackasses in bars swinging their fists at the TV and yelling "Kill him!" when the screen is showing two men hugging on the floor.

This lack of manhood made me uncertain when confronted with the challenge every true man must face: The clogged toilet.

I had to cross the Rubicon, and it wasn't flowing properly. It started as all clogs do, with the water rising towards the top of the bowl and me willing it to stop with a battle cry of "No, no, no!" and staring at it really hard.

I tried to defeat it with the plunger. But this was no ordinary clog. You know those movies where fighter jets are flying around and their missiles do nothing, like with The Squid From Beyond the Stars? That was my plunger.

At one point the toilet ripped the plunger from my hands, broke it in two and spit it across the room, chuckling at me. The toilet will independently confirm this story.

This was my darkest hour. So I did as many great warriors through history have done when all seemed lost. I turned to the sages. In this case, plumbers on YouTube with Louisiana accents who brag about their toilets the way other guys show off their sports cars.

Here I learned about my silver bullet, my Excalibur, my Star Trek technology that solves everything and is then forgotten in all future episodes.

I learned of the closet auger — a big snake that goes into the toilet, grabs the evil inside, and rips it out of the Hellmouth. It seemed a little out of my depth, but I'd have used a whip and chair if they'd told me to.

I asked a few acquaintances at the local watering hole if they had an auger. Because I had not yet earned the respect of my fellow men, they all asked me the same thing: "Did you try a plunger?" as if I'd never heard of one. I assume they imagined me standing in the bowl and jumping up and down.

I ventured into a hardware store, chose my weapon, and pulled from the toilet the source of all evil: One sock. How a sock ended up in the toilet I cannot be sure, but I'm going to assume the toilet ate a previous owner.

So, now, I am a man. I faced my fears, the enemy without and within, and came away a hero. If you need your toilet unclogged, I will gird my loins and once again make the plunge — a man for all times.

I also understand women do this sort of thing without making a big fuss. If you're into that sort of thing.

Every man's nemesis: the toilet. ISTOCK

Parent on his experience

- How did this happen?
"I was photographing a rare leucistic chipmunk in Ottawa, and was using the peanuts to distract the regular chipmunks," Parent explains. "There were about eight of them and some appeared to be quite greedy and stuffed their mouths, creating this amusing photo opportunity. I wasn't counting but I think some chipmunks easily got two peanuts into their cheeks, some of the more ambitious tried to get more. I sat about six metres away with my camera and waited for the chipmunks to come and get the peanuts."

- Chipmunk challenge.
"Chipmunks are quick and most just grabbed a peanut and left," Parent says. "It took some time for this chipmunk to stay still and try to put as many peanuts in its mouth. Then I had to be in the right position to capture a moment in time when the chipmunk was in sight and stayed moderately still."

Courtney Love being sued, again

Courtney Love's former assistant is suing over unpaid wages and claims the rocker made unethical requests such as instructing her to hire a hacker and falsify legal letters. Jessica Labrie filed the wrongful termination, wage and breach of contract lawsuit in Los Angeles on Tuesday. The suit states Labrie worked as Love's administrative assistant for about a year in 2010 and 2011, but was fired after complaining she was owed thousands in unpaid wages and expenses for business trips.

way Depot into a cultural hub by members of the community. It features a tea room, gallery and performing arts theatre that has attracted world-class talent from near and far.

"This place is a labour of love on every level," said Director Julia Jamison.

It was an opportunity that Andy Curtis couldn't pass up. The Calgary-based actor participated in the original workshops for the play and is now getting the chance to reprise the role he helped create. He plays Jake, a farmhand who befriends a young boy and claims he can help end the drought plaguing fictional Crocus, Saskatchewan, with a rain machine.

"I love the play, I love W.O. Mitchell," said Curtis. "He has such insight. He lived it, he knows it, he's writing from a really authentic place."

While it's not a place Curtis had been familiar with before accepting the role, his young co-star Alex Batycki can more closely identify with the character he plays. The 14-year-old hails from just outside of Aberdeen and says although the play is set in a different era, there's no mistaking its setting.

"It really embodies Sas-

Curtis and Batycki have formed their own close bond as every day they make the 70 kilometre drive from Saskatoon to Rosthern together. In addition to giving them extra time to run lines, Curtis says it has given him additional insight into the dynamic between the two characters.

"It's a great relationship that W.O. created between this hired man and this kid," said Curtis.

Jamison also speaks highly of the opportunity to work with this cast and crew in this setting. "There's a great deal of talent and heart in every level of the team," said Jamison. "It's been a real joy to work on a piece about a rural Saskatchewan community, in a rural Saskatchewan theatre."

A classic tale

The stories of Jake and the Kid have appeared in a variety of formats since Weyburn, Saskatchewan native W.O. Mitchell first began broadcasting them as a series of radio plays for CBC in 1950.

More than 300 episodes were produced, many of which also appeared in Maclean's before being published as a collection of short stories in 1961. A television series also ran for two seasons in the mid-'90s.

L.A.'s Outfest hits the big 3-0

Film festival. Plenty of galas, parties and films planned to mark milestone anniversary — here's a peek at what's in store

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Outfest, the premiere Gay & Lesbian film festival in Los Angeles, hits a milestone this year, celebrating its 30th birthday. The big 3-0 means more galas and parties, more films and much more celebrating. The festival kicks off with a gala screening of Vito, a poignant documentary about activist and the Celluloid Closet author Vito Russo, and the honoring of director John Waters with the festival's Achievement Award. Outfest runs July 12 through July 22 at various locations in Los Angeles. Here are some of the highlights.

Struck by Lightning
Glee star Chris Colfer gets the overachiever award for serving as star, screenwriter and executive producer of this darkly comic take on being an outcast in high school. The Golden-Globe-winning wunderkind will be on hand for the festival's Closing Night Gala presentation of the film.

Young & Wild

This frank and fearless look at young lust comes direct from Chile, following a sex-obsessed teenager (Alicia Rodriguez) as she defies her evangelical family and blogs about her exploits, has already garnered rave reviews and awards from its premiere earlier this year at Sundance.

Keep the Lights On

Writer-director Ira Sachs' starkly beautiful indie picked up the Teddy Award for Best Feature at this year's Berlin Film Festival for its depiction of modern love and addiction in New York between two men over nearly a decade.

Happy Endings

While not actually a film, this one's worth lining up for: Outfest will play host to the premiere of an unaired episode of ABC's hit comedy Happy Endings, with a cast and creative team Q&A session immediately following.

Hansen's fest views and history

Director Jim Hansen and performer Drew Droege have created an online sensation with the series Chloe, lovingly lampooning indie film star Chloe Sevigny and pretension in general. Hansen is a long-time friend of the festival, so it only seemed natural for him to create some special, Outfest-specific Chloe clips, including a pre-screening warning about silencing cell phones — or “murdering” them, as Chloe says.

How long have you been involved with the festival?

This will be the fourth year that I've had something in the festival. Last year I had some Chloe videos and a short film called Video Night, and a short called Pretty Parts the year before that. It was just as Chloe was getting popular and Drew was awarded the emerging artist award.

With the mainstreaming of gay culture, is it still important to have festivals like this?

I definitely think that Outfest and festivals like it serve a special role. It is a place to see films that you may never otherwise get to see because they don't have a mass mainstream appeal. It also supports those filmmakers to explore those new areas. It gives credibility to these films that might otherwise be overlooked and disappear.

Now that Outfest is over 30, should it start lying about its age?

I think the grey hair and fine lines will look great on Outfest, so why lie?

Neon Trees. Singer gets used to the 'taste of fame' and explores escapism themes on new album Picture Show

KILLIAN YOUNG
Metro World News in New York

Neon Trees exploded onto the music scene with Animal, the catchy dance rock track that earned them the 2011 Billboard Award for Top Alternative Song.

When asked if he expected this sudden surge in popularity, singer Tyler Glenn flatly says no.

“At the same time, I never think that we're bigger than we are,” he said.

I'm almost self-deprecating to a fault, and sometimes don't allow myself to realize how big we've gotten to some people.”

Glenn says this struggle helped inform Neon Trees' latest, Picture Show, which came out in April.

He says the album deals with “experiencing the taste of fame and how it can really swallow you up if you want it to.”

“All the songs that I was writing about for this record were about escape,” he explains.

“I like the way I feel when I go to see a movie, seeing someone else's life for two hours.”

For Neon Trees, they were able to capture the sounds of this escapism by working in Los Angeles.

“We created and recorded the record in Hollywood, and every day walking to the studio, I saw the Hollywood sign,” Glenn says.

“It's interesting how it's changed for me. I used to fear it and hate it, and I think in the last couple of years, getting to know the city more ... it's really a magical city.” Glenn credits his musical mentors for helping him strike the delicate balance of dealing with popularity.

He says he learned from singers of bands the Trees have opened for, notably 30 Second to Mars' Jared Leto, whom Glenn calls “an actual, passionate, real frontman.”

Glenn's sense of identity is taking shape: “I'm always pushing that mantra or motto that fame is dead — the idea of fame shouldn't be an end goal, but it should be a byproduct of your success and your passion.”

Katie Holmes reportedly had some high-profile sounding boards as she planned her exit from her marriage to Tom Cruise — including Cruise's second ex-wife, Nicole Kidman, according to Us Weekly.

The two first became acquainted when Holmes married Cruise in 2006.

"She has been a private friend not many people know about," the source explains.

So how did Holmes reach out to Kidman on the sly? The L.A. Times reports that Holmes used a disposable cell phone provided by a friend to plot her divorce escape.

Travis Barker still struggles with flying after famous crash

THE WORD

Monica Weymouth

Four years after surviving a deadly plane crash, Travis Barker is still understandably hesitant to fly, and his travel restrictions are making the latest Blink 182 tour a little difficult.

"This will be the big tour that supports the album in Europe. Mind you, I'm not flying, so it's hard to say what the band could do or what its potential is, because I can't really get everywhere," the drummer tells Red Bulletin magazine.

Barker is, however, planning to give it another go if the tour takes them down under.

"I'm contemplating getting knocked out and getting on a plane to Australia. I want to overcome that eventually," he continues. "When I do, I think it's going to be Qantas. They never had a crash, never had a fatality — knock on wood. It's something I want to overcome."

Attention men, it's about to get loud

Trend alert. With a riot of hot colours, prints and metallics, the spring/summer '13 men's wear shows are not for the shy

life@metronews.ca

Seemingly, these days, men are more sartorially daring and, boy, are they going to need to be, judging by the menagerie of prints on offer. Dolce and Gabbana looked to a Sicily of old, with images of Sicilian barrows, puppets ('pupi') and temples, all desirably nostalgic. In contrast, Dries Van Noten combined camouflage and leopard — disguise or defence?

Whatever the meaning is, you won't be overlooked in these. Kenzo continued the camo trope with a look to the jungle. That's the urban jungle with abstracted leopard print and tiger stripes of baggy shorts and boxy tees — a key trend for the season.

Metallics: feel the steel

Think of metallics and you're probably picturing a man in a tin foil robot suit. Lanvin's monochromes were broken up with futuristic, cyborg-esque tailoring, shorts and a rather splendid pea coat, all accentuated by the dead-eyed models. But it was Versace who ramped it up with a homoerotic gladiatorial extravaganza. The outerwear and accessories appeared as a campy Mad Max-Matrix hybrid. Burberry took a break from the sobriety of its recent shows by further continuing the sci-fi motif, with models resembling Blade Runner-esque replicants with ice blue shirts and fuchsia trenches.

Colours are hotting up

This season a pop of colour has progressed, thanks to the likes of Gucci who cut tailoring among other pieces in leaf green, mustard yellow and reds that ran the gamut. Ghastly? No, captivating. Similarly red, the most evocative of colours was used to

Keep cool with haute home decor

Blocking the sunlight and controlling air flow are two ways to keep your space feeling cooler this summer. HUNTER DOUGLAS

Beat the heat. When the temperature rises, stay fresh and cold with these sleek, simple cooling devices

Karl Lohnes
home@metronews.ca

With record-breaking temperatures this summer and the thermometer expected to keep rising throughout most of the country this week, it's important to not only look cool, but to keep your home cool too.

Here are a few homeowner-friendly products that will keep you cool — and keep your home looking chic. None require major installation, and all are cool-looking (and feeling!) and well worth the money.

Cool the air

Spot cooling with a portable air conditioner is a great way to save energy by only cooling the areas of your home that you use on a regular basis. The DeLonghi Pinguino portable air conditioner has handles and castors for easy portability. Its 9000 BTUs can cool up to 350 square feet, and the built-in fan, dehumidifier with silent operation and remote control will be your climate-control friend year-round.

Portable air conditioners allow for spot cooling when air conditioners can't be installed. DeLonghi Pinguino Portable 9000, $500, Delonghi.ca

Move the air

A ceiling fan can help reduce scorching temperatures by six to 10 per cent and costs little to run. In the winter it can help to improve air circulation and distribute heat that rises toward ceilings and in corners of a room, helping to get rid of condensation on windows. The Modern Fan Company's Pensi aluminum ceiling fan (with a fabulous discrete light) boasts an ultra-modern sleek look for the minimalist decorator.

Choose your breeze

Tabletop fans bring a cool breeze into warm spots at night and circulate the air during the day. The Dyson Air Multiplier AM01 fan works without blades, which means air isn't "chopped," creating that annoying buffering sound. The Air Multiplier technology amplifies surrounding air and creates an uninterrupted stream of air. It's not only efficient, but beautifully sculptural too.

Block the heat

The beauty of window coverings is that they give you full control of light and keep heat out in the summer. Hunter Douglas Architella Honeycomb Shades not only offer up modern style, but also energy efficiency — three air pockets within the honeycomb provide an R-value of up to 7.75 (a 4 R-value will prevent up to 75 per cent heat or cold loss through a window) and will insulate your window from the hot rays hitting the windows.

Window shades keep the heat out in summer and the cold out in winter. Architella Honeycomb Shades, starting at $250, Hunter-Douglas.ca

Ironing

Beat linen woes with this combo

During the summer months, I face the usual dilemma of whether or not I should iron my summer linen wardrobe. If I iron it, what's the best way to do this as easily and effortlessly as possible?

CHARLES
askcharlesthebutler@metronews.ca
For more, visit charlesmacpherson.com

Whether you should iron your linen is a personal fashion statement. But I can help you get rid of the wrinkles.

In order to iron linen successfully, you need the clothing to be humid combined with the heat of a hot iron. Without both you can never iron successfully.

Why humidity? Won't a hot iron get rid of the wrinkles? Surprisingly, no.

Most people hate ironing because they don't have good results. They iron with heat but no humidity and get frustrated when the wrinkles don't disappear.

Steam created when you iron clothing with a combination of humidity and heat allows the linen fibres to relax and get rid of the wrinkles.

Sweet & Savoury. Spinach & Savoy Cabbage Slaw with Roasted Beets

To roast the beets in this recipe, wrap them together in foil and bake at 425 F (220 C) for 1 hour or until tender when tested with the tip of a knife. If you're running low on time, you can also use store-bought pickled beets.

1. Whisk together vinegar, oil, soy sauce, hot pepper jelly, ginger and garlic. Toss with shredded cabbage, spinach, green onions and sesame seeds.

2. Cut roasted beets into wedges and gently toss with salad. Sprinkle blue cheese over and serve immediately.

Ingredients

- 4 tbsp (60 ml) seasoned rice wine vinegar
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) sesame oil
- 2 tsp (10 ml) soy sauce
- 1 tsp (5 ml) hot pepper jelly, melted
- 1 tsp (5 ml) ginger, finely minced
- 1 tsp (5 ml) garlic, minced
- 4 cups (1 l) savoy cabbage, cored and shredded
- 3 cups (750 ml) baby spinach
- 4 green onions, finely sliced
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) toasted sesame seeds
- 4 medium roasted beets

Cook sausage, onion and red pepper, breaking sausage up with wooden spoon, until sausage is crumbled and cooked through, about 3 minutes. Stir in rice, paprika, salt and pepper; cook until heated through, about 1 minute.

2. Meanwhile, in a bowl, whisk eggs, milk, parsley; pour evenly over sausage mixture. Cover and cook over medium heat until bottom and sides are firm and top is almost set, about 8 minutes.

3. Sprinkle with cheese; transfer to a preheated oven and broil on high, watching closely, until cheese is bubbly, and frittata set, about 2 minutes.

4. Let stand 5 minutes. Slide onto cutting board and cut in wedges.

CFL. Return game turns heads with TD outburst in opening two weeks

Mike Benevides is 2-0 as a CFL head coach, thanks to the B.C. Lions special teams.

The defending Grey Cup champions haven't skipped a beat with their rookie head coach. But Benevides says the Lions wouldn't be undefeated if not for the play of Tim Brown, the CFL's top punt returner this season.

"There's no way we would've won the last two games without our special teams in terms of our return game," the Toronto native said. "For us, it was a huge part of the wins."

The play of Brown and other returners was indeed special last weekend as three punts and a missed field goal were taken back for touchdowns. That gives the CFL four special-teams TDs so far, which is already half of last year's total.

Winnipeg's Demond Washington had the first return TD, taking a punt back 82 yards in a 41-30 loss to Montreal on Friday night. In the nightcap, Brown had an 81-yard punt return for a touchdown in B.C.'s

B.C.'s Tim Brown celebrates a touchdown against Hamilton last Friday in Vancouver. DARRYL DYCK/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

39-36 home win over Hamilton, a game that also saw Chris Williams of the Tiger-Cats score on a 67-yard punt return.

On Saturday, Calgary's Larry Taylor returned a missed field goal 125 yards for a touchdown in a 39-36 road loss to Toronto.

"That (four return TDs the same weekend) is probably a surprise when you look at it but overall you can see why," Benevides said. "It's one of those things that's exciting for the fans and is a huge part of the CFL."

Hamilton rookie head coach George Cortez agreed. Well, sort of.

"I don't think anybody in the league is happy about the state of their special teams," Cortez told reporters Tuesday. "Let me rephrase that."

"Everybody is happy with the return game and nobody is happy with their coverage game."

Brown certainly gave Benevides plenty to smile about Friday with six punt returns for 157 yards and seven kickoff returns for 139 yards. He also had a 59-yard punt return in B.C.'s season-opening 33-16 home victory over Winnipeg.

However, that paled in comparison to the club-record 441 all-purpose yards Taylor rolled up against Toronto, second only in CFL history to the 474-yard performance Winnipeg's Albert Johnson III had in 2000. Calgary's Taylor had eight kickoff returns for 222 yards, two missed field goal returns for 136 yards and two punt returns for 70 yards in addition to a 13-yard catch.

Benevides, a former special-teams coach, says return teams usually have the early advantage on cover squads.

"At this point in time it's Week 2, there's still a feel-out process in terms of the personnel on rosters and where guys play on certain positions," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ready for Riders?

B.C. is in Regina on Saturday to face the unbeaten Roughriders, and coach Mike Benevides expects Saskatchewan's cover teams to have some different wrinkles to contain Tim Brown.

- As a result, the Lions' special teams will feature their own adjustments.
- "It's cat and mouse, it's always the chess match," Benevides said. "Obviously the pieces on the cover teams will continue to change and make it tough."

NBA. Nash still surprised to be joining Lakers

Steve Nash knew the scene was more than a bit surreal when he stood in the Los Angeles Lakers' training complex, grinning and holding up a gold No. 10 jersey with his name on the back.

"Being here right now is something I never foresaw," Nash said Wednesday. "That (jersey) was a major hurdle for me just to get over visually as a player."

The two-time MVP will get used to it. After spending the past 16 years trying to beat L.A. in Phoenix and Dallas, Nash is switching teams to chase NBA titles alongside Kobe Bryant.

Lamoriello on way to U.S. hall of fame

Lou Lamoriello, New Jersey's longtime general manager, who has led the Devils to three Stanley Cup titles and five Eastern Conference crowns, was named Wednesday to this year's induction class of the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame.

Former players Mike Modano, who won a Stanley Cup with the Dallas Stars, and Eddie Olczyk, who won one with the New York Rangers, are also a part of the class that will be enshrined in the fall.

NHL. Winter Classic adds second alumni game to include more legends

Next season's Winter Classic between the Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs will include two alumni games and around 100 players from the storied franchises.

Representatives from both teams announced preliminary rosters at a news conference Wednesday at Comerica Park, where the alumni games are scheduled to take place Dec. 31. The 2012-13 editions of the Red Wings and Maple Leafs will play the Winter Classic on Jan. 1 at Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20.

With Mars, your ruling planet, moving through the partnership sector of your chart, this is the perfect time to assess your relationships.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Your capacity for hard work is legendary but you could be tempted to take on too many tasks over the next 24 hours. While your energy may be unlimited, your time is not.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

Throw yourself into a creative activity and forget about personal problems. Working hard on projects that you enjoy will be therapeutic.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

You need to get over your sense of injustice and stand far enough back to see the big picture. Then you will realize that life is a lot fairer than you have given it credit for.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22.

Forget about work for the next 24 hours and do something that is purely for fun. If you can arrange it, a trip away from your usual environment will do you the world of good.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

You may want to make a good impression on certain people but don't do anything you might later regret. Success is important, of course, but so is your sense of integrity.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

All the things that you should have done but never got around to are possible for you now. Make use of Mars in your sign to motivate yourself to do something spectacular.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

There will be a number of distractions today and it is quite likely that you will get frustrated at not being able to focus on one thing at a time.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Even if you are a rare Sagittarius who prefers their own company, you will want to be involved in a group activity of some sort today.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20.

You may be determined to prove you have what it takes, but you must also accept there are forces in the world that can't be defeated.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18.

Mars in your fellow Air sign of Libra means there is no excuse for moaning that you don't get the breaks. Instead of waiting for luck to come your way, go out and grab it.

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Others will be eager to involve you in their schemes, but be on your guard. Yes, there is money to be made, but you won't get something for nothing. SALLY BROMPTON
